

How to enter the Houses of Parliament

Except when otherwise indicated, Conservative Muslim Forum events are always held in a House of Lords or House of Commons committee room.

Both are accessed via the Cromwell Green Visitors' Entrance. Number 8 on the Parliament map on the next page.

From Parliament Square, walk along the railings away from Bridge Street, and it is the first entrance you come to.

The policemen at the top of the ramp will ask what event you are attending and in which room. It helps to have something printed to show them.

There is then a long ramp down to the security screening. When Parliament is busy with events, this can mean queuing for up to 30 minutes. You have to go through airport style security before you enter the Parliamentary Estate.

Once through, there will be plenty of people to ask for directions.

Otherwise, walk along the pavement once you emerge from screening, with the building on your right. Once you get to railings stopping you going further, turn right into Westminster Hall. At the end of that, go up the steps, turn left, and eventually you will end up in the Central Lobby. Go straight ahead for the committee rooms.
